MYCROFT INC. ANNOUNCES IMMEDIATE AVAILABILITY OF TWO REMEDIATION SOLUTIONS TO ADDRESS RSA SECURITY BREACH

Security Solution Provider Offers Correction Path or Replacement of RSA Identification Environments

New York, NY (June 20, 2011) – Mycroft Inc., (www.mycroftinc.com) the global innovation leader in delivering IT identity and security solutions as a service, announced the immediate availability of two remediation solutions to specifically address the security breach of EMC Corp.'s RSA authentication environment.

To alleviate the risks facing a large number of companies in the aftermath of the RSA security breach of its SecurID devices used to securely log onto corporate networks, Mycroft Inc.'s offering not only identifies a company's level of risk, but also provides two remediation options.

The first remediation option navigates the steps to upgrade RSA's infrastructure through software, token and policy enhancements, and the second provides a migration strategy that delivers an entirely new authentication environment for companies that prefer to move away from RSA. Both solutions are based on the deep skills Mycroft Inc. developed from nearly two decades of experience and have been tailored to meet the specific and critical needs brought about by the RSA breach.

"It's clear the RSA issues have created a high level of anxiety both in overall confidence in RSA security, as well as in the potential exposure during the time it will take RSA to replace the millions of security tokens needed across its customer base," said Jonathan Freeman, Mycroft Inc. founder. "As a longtime security solution provider, it is critical that Mycroft Inc. be reactive to the situation and provide an immediate way to address this far-reaching issue."

For more than a decade, Mycroft Inc. has been delivering industry-leading security, identity access and management solutions to Fortune 500 customers. Mycroft Inc. has continually set the industry mile-markers with its new cloud architecture and quick-start delivery of production-ready, pre-configured security products and proven functionality.
